IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear mother, Mrs. A. B. Ferguson, who departed this life thirteen years ago today, April 7, 1947.

Thirteen years ago today you left us,
So sad was that day;
You went away, and God took you
In his loving arms, and whispered
Peace be thine.
How we miss your sweet smiling face, dear mother;
No one can take your place.
We know that you are happy
And free from pain.
We hope and pray to meet you,
Dear mother, on that Happy Golden Shore.

IN MEMORIAM

FERGUSON: In loving remembrance of my daddy, Benjamin M. Ferguson, who passed away April 10, 1951.

You will always be remembered,
As the years come and go.
And never will you be forgotten,
For we loved you so.

I like to think when life is done,
Wherever Heaven may be,
That you'll be standing at the door
Up there to welcome me, Dad.
—Sadly missed by his Daughter,

SPORTS

By Pete Fritchie

Washington, D. C. — Manager Ralph Houk, of the New York Yankees, is in a hot seat as he begins the 1961 season. In the first place he follows a manager who was the most colorful, and popular, in the game.

If that were not enough he follows a manager who rang up a record of winning pennants which will be difficult for anyone to match and the Yankees start out this year as American League pennant winners of 1961, so in the season's regular play they have nowhere to go but down.

Add to this the fact that Houk must deal with players much closer to his own age, while not yet having earned the respect Casey Stengel had, and you can see that the new Yankee skipper has his work cut out.

Just how strong the New York club will be this year is a good question. The strong hitting is considered certain - Mantle Maris, Berra, etc. The pitching, however, must hold up or the Yankees, with all their power could be in trouble.

It was pitching that almost cost the Yanks the pennant last year. That the strong point of the challenging Baltimore Orioles, who made a fight of it down to September.

Only two teams seem to have much chance of making a strong run for the pennant, along with New York. They are the Chicago White Sox and the Baltimore Orioles. Some believe the Orioles will fade a bit this year, that perhaps Cleveland or Minnesota will get into the pennant fight.

But at the outset the White Sox and Orioles must be given the top contending role. Al Lopez is enough reason to put the White Sox in contention, and he has a strong pitching staff. Paul Richards, too, is the main reason the Orioles are rated co-equals. Richards can get more out of young pitchers than anyone in the league, possibly excepting Lopez.

It would be a good thing for the league if there is a pennant race in the American League this year. At this stage it doesn't seem that the Yanks will run away but they must be rated favorites.

And Houk is in the position of having to win the flag or be a failure in his first year at the helm so he will be out to get the Yanks off to a fast start.
